

Sundry Creditors: Policy + Process

Overview

Sundry creditors is designed for use in the following circumstances:

- Supplier is low value
- To be paid only once
- There is no overarching contract/statement of work
- There are no other legal/compliance issues to consider (see detailed flowchart)

This is set up as a dummy supplier within the finance system and the PO system, such that any spend can still follow all other internal controls around purchase approvals, budget compliance etc. Sundry PO's have additional approvals (AP, Ledger manager, Finance controller and treasury) vs PO's for suppliers that are onboarded.

If a PO is raised in Coupa to the Sundry supplier, once the invoice is received against this, it exports to Oracle in the same way as any other supplier and sits open on the AP ledger. It cannot be added to a weekly payment run, as 'Sundry Creditors' has no bank details in it. AP will therefore pay this manually, and require the bank details to be provided on the invoice (which is a legal invoicing requirement in the UK anyway so should not be an issue).

Sundry creditors has a 30 day payment term applied to it – this means your supplier should expect payment on or just before 30 days after the date of the invoice. Payments sooner than this must be supported by a valid business case and approved by a Financial Controller or Finance Director.

Options

The flowchart in the next section guides you through when you should use sundry and when to onboard the supplier.

If you need to onboard the supplier, follow the usual process.

If Sundry is ok but an additional compliance check is required – Either contact compliance and attach evidence of this to the PO (quickest option!) or if there is no evidence on the PO, The Finance Controller in the chain will contact compliance to check the supplier (delays approvals). The PO will not pass approvals without the compliance check.

If sundry is ok with no additional compliance checks, you may use sundry without contacting compliance.
